

Please join us in welcoming Richard Curry to Texas A&M University-Commerce. Richard is the Proposal Developer and Grant Writer in the Office of Sponsored Programs, Graduate Studies and Research.

Richard has more than 20 years of experience working in higher education proposal development and grant writing, research administration, consulting with an emphasis on research strategic planning, and overall leadership in securing grant funding for higher education. Richard's focus is working with faculty and staff in the development of proposals as well as assisting in the identification of funding opportunities. Please feel free to contact Richard for support in your efforts to secure extramural funding.
